Congressman Dale

One of the practically assured results of next Tuesday's election will be the return to Congress for his fourth consecutive term of Col. Porter H. Dale of Island Pond, Vermont. He has long had the habit of keeping good men in both the House and Senate and has enjoyed thereby a prestige that rarely comes to a small state.

Col. Dale will be more useful in the coming Congress than in any previous session and with the republicans in control of both branches and a republican president, as seems exceedingly probable, Congressman Dale will be in position to wield much influence. It would be the height of folly to swap horses in the middle of a storm and lose the benefit of our present Congressman's experience and intimate knowledge of public affairs.

Col. Dale has been a conscientious atic endorsement of the voters of the country. As one of those voters and as one of your fellow citizens I want to express my entire confidence in you and my confident hope that under your leadership we may carry the policy of the national government forward along the path of liberal legislation and human reform until the whole world again sees an illustration of the wholesome strength of democracy and the happy fruit of what the founders of the Republic purposed when they set this great government up. Allow me to sign myself your gratified and loyal supporter.

WOODROW WILSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Attorney-General Palmer in special instructions sent out today advised all federal law enforcement authorities to give careful attention to violation of election laws and especially to violations of the corrum practices act in the coming election.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Oct. 29—Gov. Cox brought his campaign back to state today beginning with a speech here at the home of E. H. Moore, his pre-convention campaign manager. He was to speak at Akron tonight where he planned to rally to Senator Harding's speech of Thursday night in the same city. In that speech Senator Harding declared that he was not the candidate of a clique of combination but was "absolutely unpreserved and unbiased." Gov. Cox made public today a letter from Herbert C. Stiller of Dayton, a veteran of the world war contributing money to be used in distributing copies of the covenant of the League of Nations. The Governor's reply said: "It is a sad commentary of human nature that the boys who offered their lives to end the war for all time must still carry on the fight to see that our pledge is kept. Those who have an opportunity to read the covenant will understand it and when they understand it they will vote for it."

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 29—Gov. Cox was characterized as a "wobbler and a man of the human variety" by Gov. Burton of New Hampshire at a Republican Rally here last night. The speaker declared that Gov. Cox was a man "quick to anger and reckless of speech and did not depict himself as a candidate for president should."

WARNING TO HALLOWEEN CELEBRATORS

Hallowe'en is officially due Sunday evening, October 31st, but will be celebrated by most of the youngsters on Saturday evening, October 30. Public officials have taken action to prevent any of the disgraceful scenes that marked last year's celebration in this vicinity.

Chief of Police Finley of St. Johnsbury today issued a statement saying that the police will not countenance any damage to property or insult to persons in the celebration of Hallowe'en. The practice of taking off blinds, moving door steps, etc. will be considered a violation of the law and all persons irrespective of age found to be doing damage to property will be prosecuted. Chief Finley has secured a dozen extra officers for duty Saturday and the town will be patrolled to keep peace and order.

Parents should warn their children and call to their attention the difference between harmless amusement and destruction of property or insult to persons or they will suffer the embarrassment of finding some of their children in police court Monday morning, Chief Finley declared today.
